

WOMAN EDUCATOR IS CHOSEN TO HEAD STATE TEACHERS

Superintendent of Shelby County Schools, Chosen to Head Kentucky Educational Association For Ensuing Year.

Louisville, Ky., April 23. — Mrs. M. L. Hall, superintendent of Shelby county schools, was elected president of the Kentucky Educational Association at the election of officers here Friday. Her election was made by acclamation following the refusal of Professor J. W. Ireland, of Frankfort, and H. L. Donovan, of Catlettsburg, to permit their names to be placed in nomination. Professor Ireland nominated Mrs. Hall.

There was so much confusion following the election of Mrs. Hall that the election of other officers was considerably delayed. Mrs. Hall succeeds Professor J. S. Risley, of Owensboro.

The hundreds of women present all lined for Mrs. Hall for president. Mrs. Hall is the third woman to be president of the K. E. A. Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart, of Frankfort, was the last one before her, holding this position in 1917. In a speech Thursday Mrs. Stewart declared that the women members of the organization should see that one of their number was elected president, adding that the organization could not prosper with only men as its officers.

Other officers elected were: First Vice President, L. E. Karkpatrick, of Paris; second vice president, A. L. Crabbe, Western State Normal School, Bowling Green; third vice president, George Baker, University of Kentucky, Lexington. R. E. Williams, secretary, was re-elected for a period of three years. George Colvin, superintendent of public instruction, and M. E. Ligon, Henderson, were re-elected directors.

BOY, SHOT BY FELLOW WORKMAN, ASKS COMPENSATION

Aberdeen Boy Was Shot While In Discharge of His Duties and is Asking Compensation From Company.

Attorney A. D. Cole has just returned from Whitesburg, Ky., where he has argued before a referee for the State Workmen's Compensation Board in regard to the injury sustained by Oliver Earle, an Aberdeen boy, while working in a mine near that place.

Young Earle was driving a team and it is charged that his team broke down a watering trough, whereupon, it is alleged, a fellow workman became enraged and in an argument with young Earle, shot him four times. The balls took lodgment in such places that it was impossible to remove them and they are now in his body. He sought compensation under the State Workmen's Compensation Act and Mr. Cole is representing him.

At the hearing at Whitesburg this week a part of the evidence was heard and as the insurance company did not have all its evidence ready, the hearing was continued and will be conducted at Winchester.

An indictment was returned against the man who wounded young Earle charging him with shooting and wounding with intent to kill and the case will be tried during next week.

This is fine weather for housecleaning. Neither too warm or too cool. Don't try to clean house, this year, without a good step-ladder. You'll be surprised what a help they are to you. Mike Brown, of Square Deal Square, has some dandies for sale.

Four Buyers Bid on Mason County Wool Pool and Committee Postpones Action Until Tuesday Of Next Week.

Although there were four bidders and the bids were opened for the purchase of the Mason County wool pool amounting to approximately 10,500 pounds of graded wool, at the Farm Bureau office this afternoon, the sale was not made.

Mr. James Riley was the only member of the Bureau's sale committee present and he did not care to set in the absence of the other members of the committee so he asked for time and informed the bidders, who were present, that he would call his committee together between this and Tuesday and then decide whether the wool would be sold or whether the bids would be rejected and new bids asked for by the committee.

The bidders were Bryant & Kirk, Finch & Chambers, James W. Fitzgerald and J. C. Everett & Co. As bids all closed at noon today no other bids will be received until after the committee announces Tuesday morning whether or not they will reject all of the bids now on hand.

HOUSE REPASSES BILL BARRING REFUGEES

Measures Restricting European Refugees Passed in Same Form As Was Voted.

Washington, April 22. — After rejecting an amendment seeking to open the doors of the United States to foreign political refugees, the House today passed the immigration restriction bill, substantially in the same form it went through last session, only to be given a pocket veto. The bill now goes to the Senate, where Republican leaders said today it would be passed without delay.

The measure is designed to be operative over a period of fourteen months, and would limit the entry of aliens to three per cent. of the number of nationals of any country in the United States at the time of the 1910 census. Three amendments slightly modifying its provisions were adopted by the House, although it was said tonight that they might be stricken out by the Senate. One would permit admission in excess of the three per cent. limit of all aliens clearly proving they had been subjected to religious persecution in their native lands and were seeking refuge here solely to avoid such hardships.

The principal fight was over an amendment offered by Representative Sabath, Illinois, ranking Democrat on the Immigration Committee, to open the gates to political refugees, including Donald O'Callaghan. This was lost after a long debate, which was closed by Representative Mondell, the Republican leader, who said that under it even the former German Emperor could come here.

Mr. O'Donnell is chairman of his district which is part of Riverside Drive and vicinity.

Mr. O'Donnell has never been weaned away from his native heath by the lure of the bright lights and metropolitan "distractions," he being an occasional visitor to his beloved Maysville where he delights to mingle again among his boyhood friends.

PERRY COUNTY IS SCENE OF BIG MOONSHINE RAIDS

Six Arrests Made and Three Large Stillies Are Destroyed at Hazard and in Perry County.

Lexington, Ky., April 23. — The arrest of five negroes and one white man in and near Hazard on charges of selling and possessing liquor; raiding of three stills and the destruction of 2,000 gallons of still beer and a large amount of distilling apparatus were the net results of a three-day raid conducted in Perry county this week by Federal prohibition officers from the local office, it became known today following the return of the officers to Lexington.

The force of raiders, composed of Prohibition Agents S. J. Cornett, S. J. Watkins, Neal Gullfoyle and J. E. Beverley, Jr., left here Monday night and went to Hazard, where they were joined by U. S. Deputy Marshal H. C. Caudill. In a series of raids made on restaurants and pool rooms and one private residence there, the officers report that four negroes, Bud Nelson, Fred Smith, Berry Pennington and Fred Nelson, with Henry Wells, a white man, were arrested on charges of possessing whisky and were released on $100 cash bond when taken before U. S. Commissioner J. I. Hall for preliminary hearing.

The officers then proceeded to a neighborhood on Big Creek, where they had information that a number of stills were in operation about fifteen miles from Hazard. In two days' search over a territory of ten to fifteen square miles the officers found and destroyed three stills. None of them were in operation and the worms had been removed from all of them. No arrests were made in connection with the raids, but evidence was obtained that may result in the issuance of warrants for parties believed by the officers to have been interested in the illicit distilling operations. It was said. One of the stills cut up was of 135 gallons capacity and barrels at the still contained 1,400 gallons of still beer.

JAPAN EXPECTED TO YIELD IN ITS ANSWER TO U. S.

Japan Is Expected to Make Concessions in the Controversy Over the Yap Island Mandate.

Washington, April 23. — Japan is prepared to make concessions to the United States in the dispute over the island of Yap according to authoritative opinion here today. However, this will not be done for some time yet.

Despite reports from Tokyo, Japan will remain obdurate in insisting upon the validity of the mandate over Yap. It was learned here that high Japanese authorities incline to the view that every nation vitally interested in the Yap issue eventually must make concessions and no one power can have its full claims accepted.

Japan, it is authoritatively believed, will follow a course along this line.

1: In the forthcoming reply to the United States, Japan probably will state its position regarding the mandate over Yap remain the same, that the mandate was allocated properly to Japan by the Allied Supreme Council and that the American protests against the Japanese mandate raises a question which must be finally decided by all the principal allied powers.

2: At the next meeting of the Supreme Council, or possibly before, Japan will concede the right of the United States and all other nations to free access for cables and other purposes to Yap and the other islands north of the Equator mandated to Japan, provided, however, Great Britain grants the same concessions in the former German islands south of the Equator mandated to Australia and New Zealand.

OUR POLICY:

And likewise to earnestly and consistently oppose all things that are not for the good of the county as a whole.

THE APPOINTMENT OF JUDGE HUMPHREY.

Judge Alex P. Humphrey, of Louisville, one of the most distinguished lawyers and citizens of Kentucky, and one of the most influential members of the Democratic party in the state, has been appointed to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Hines on the State Board of Charities and Corrections.

In this appointment Governor Morrow has not only shown a sincere desire to promote the best interests of the penal and charitable institutions of the commonwealth by maintaining the personnel of the board at the highest standard of character and ability, but a steady determination to keep the administration of these important institutions entirely free from partisan politics, or any other kind of politics.

In this he has been true to his past performances and to his pledges to the people of Kentucky, made before his election. Governor Morrow by the present appointment merely confirms the impression in the public mind that he is sincerely seeking to serve the best interests of the state, and every good citizen hopes that Judge Humphrey, in spite of his many responsibilities and obligations, will feel that this is an opportunity which he cannot afford to neglect at any cost.

The loss of Mr. Hines through his untimely death was deeply felt by all who were concerned about the state institutions under the care of the board, and to which he had so zealously and ably devoted his time and strength, even beyond his strength. But if Judge Humphrey accepts the post we shall feel that there will be sustained interest in the great reforms which have been and are being accomplished in this charitable and correctional field.

BILLY SUNDAY'S TRIP TO MAYSVILLE.

Some argument has arisen among the ministers of Cincinnati churches as to whether or not Billy Sunday's revival now in progress in that city is to be worth while. A Methodist District Superintendent in a recent meeting of Methodist ministers is quoted as saying that he doubted whether or not the revival now in progress will be really worth while and this statement has brought forth statements from other pastors who testify to the truth already of the great meetings.

A man with one eye and no hearing could see that the meetings are worth while. Thousands of people every day are crowding into the great tabernacle to hear this great preacher expound the word of God and hundreds are "bitting the sawdust trail." Whether they are new converts or not the meeting is doing good.

Mr. Sunday favored Maysville with a trip last Monday and although he spoke for only forty-five minutes, his trip to Maysville was worth much to our town and community. That forty-five minutes will be long remembered.

Although we have long been skeptical as to some of Mr. Sunday's methods, we take off our hats to any man who can attract the attention of the multitudes such as he does and direct their attention to the Christ. Mr. Sunday's meetings are worth many times their cost to any community. The good he does can never be counted in dollars and cents.

CONTRIBUTION TO HOME FOR HOMELESS.

Good people of Maysville have contributed $701.04 to the home building fund of the Kentucky Children's Home Society and no money has been given by the people of Maysville to a better cause.

These scores of children, gathered from all parts of the state when their parents have fallen or deserted them, deserve much better accommodations than they have in the crowded home they now occupy in the city of Louisville. It is the plan of the Board of Directors to use the money contributed by the big hearted men and women of Kentucky to erect attractive homes on a farm recently purchased near Louisville where the youngsters will have the free country and plenty of pure air.

There is nothing reaches a real man's heart more quickly than a child left alone in the world. They have enough of a handicap to be turned over to an institutional life and the people of Kentucky should go their limit to furnish these younger Kentuckians with the best home possible.

Although the active campaign in Maysville and Mason county is closed, any contribution will be gratefully received at any time by those in charge of the home.

JACK CUDAHY SHUFFLES OFF.

The suicide in Los Angeles on Wednesday of Jack Cudahy because he was unable to negotiate a loan for ten thousand dollars furnishes us something to think about.

The son of a multi-millionaire whose name is known where ever meat is eaten, blows his own brains out because his credit is gone and he is refused a loan of money.

It was only yesterday that he reveled in his riches and was lauded in all parts of the nation. He was the polo idol of two continents and was wine and dined by the aristocrats and yet today he was refused credit and with his credit gone, he shuffled off this mortal life and rushed into an unknown eternity.

There might be splendid lessons drawn from this tragedy by the youth of the nation. The lessons are most too obvious to mention. Wealthy sires do not make the son but in a careful and judicious use of what we have and a jealous protection of our credit there is much satisfaction and pleasure and a peace of mind.

R. R. REDUCTION COSTS.

One thing is absolutely certain—that high rates have not enabled the railroads to meet expenses. The rates cannot go higher, hence it seems as though expenses must come down. The investigation before the Cummins Committee will very likely afford an opportunity to demonstrate in what respects there is a possibility of reducing costs of operation.

THE MORAL SIDE OF PROTECTIVE POLICY IS OUTLINED.

Moral Side of Much Discussed Question Should Be Considered.

Washington, D. C. — "Those philanthropic free traders who are so fearful that the Republic will pass a tariff law which will interfere with importers' profits, would do well to consider some of the objections of American manufacturers to unrestricted competition with European and Oriental countries, particularly Germany and Japan," declared the Republican Publicity Association. "Representatives of the American toy industry, for example, enumerate among other phases of the radically unfair competition to which American manufacturers are subjected and which calls for immediate and imperative necessary treatment the fact that the German and Japanese toy industries are ungoverned by sanitary, union or child labor restrictions; that in the large proportion of home work done in both countries the earnings of an entire family are less than the wage of an individual American toy factory employee, an that all of the most important and popular American toy inventions and devices are copied outright in both countries, neither of which is known to have a toy of importance to its credit as creator. These toys copied by foreign makers are sent to this country and offered for sale at less than the American cost of actual production because of the wide difference between the wage scales and habits of life in the countries in question and those of the United States, according to the American toy makers.

"If there is any good reason why American manufacturers should be penalized for their efficiency by unregulated competition in the products of countries which employ child labor, the labor of old women, carried on under insanitary conditions and unlimited as to hours, the free traders have not yet adduced it. If their propaganda for free trade is actuated by a desire to be helpful to humanity, instead of by the wish to add to their profits through escaping protective duty rates, they might well extend their philanthropy to Europe and Asia first, where labor conditions and the standards of living are such as no American, union or non-union, would for a moment tolerate.

"Protection has a moral as well as an economic side. Our employees have become habituated to a higher standard of living, better clothes, better food, better education for their children, better housing, and enlarged opportunities for recreation and mental improvement. The American laborer is no clod, no mere hewer of wood and drawer of water. And all this has been brought about through wages two or three times greater than prevailing in Europe, five times those prevailing in the Orient, and an ever increasing appreciation of humanitarianism on the part of this nation generally.

"With free trade the rule in this country, a policy which is supported by a dwindling minority, the endency of labor conditions would be to descend to the level of those prevailing in Europe and the Orient. The wage scale would be the first to drop, followed quickly by a lowering of the living standards. It is a mere platitude to say that a laboring man can not live as well, or support his family as well, on a wage curtailed by foreign competition as he can when that competition is restricted and the products of his labor are given the predominant place in the domestic market. The free traders argue that the efficiency of the American workmen will offset the foreign wage scales and then in the same breath declare that Europe can never pay her indebtedness unless she is given a monopoly in the American Market. But the Re-

SYMPTOMS WOMEN DREAD

Mrs. Wilson's Letter Should Be Read by All Women

Clearfield, Pa. — "After my last child was born last September I was unable to do all of my own work. I had severe pains in my left side every month and had fever and sick dizziness and such pains during my periods, which lasted two weeks. I heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound doing others so much good and thought I would give it a trial. I have been very glad that I did, for now I feel much stronger and do all of my work. I tell my friends when they ask me what helped me, and they think it must be a grand medicine. And it is. You can use this letter for a testimonial if you wish." — Mrs. HARRY A. WILSON, R. F. D. 5, Clearfield, Pa.

The experience and testimony of such women as Mrs. Wilson prove beyond a doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will correct such troubles by removing the cause and restoring the system to a healthy normal condition. When such symptoms develop as backaches, bearing-down pains, displacements, nervousness and "the blues" a woman cannot act too promptly in trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound if she values her future comfort and happiness.

Improvement. The American laborer is no clod, no mere hewer of wood and drawer of water. And all this has been brought about through wages two or three times greater than prevailing in Europe, five times those prevailing in the Orient, and an ever increasing appreciation of humanitarianism on the part of this nation generally.

But the Republican party intends to restore the protective policy, and if these free traders are still philanthropically inclined, they will find plenty of work to do in inducing foreign employers to raise the standards of their operations."

New York Letter

by
Lucy Jeanne Price

New York. — The massed array of witnesses of the two sides of the Stillman divorce case would make up a very good musical comedy of the sort where no expense is spared in the chorus effects. Simple Indians and pioneers from the Canadian forests will be offset by bespangled chorus girls of Broadway, not forgetting the nautical division from the good ship Modesty, Mr. Stillman's yacht. The available array includes astrologers, bell boys, maid servants, apartment house superintendents, and other too numerous to particularize, who would just be listed on the program as "Indians and gentlemen of the ensemble" or maybe, "yeomanry."

There's a terrible shock awaiting any visitor to the city from far away who goes down to see the excitement in the stock exchange these days. We've grown so accustomed to thinking of it as a place of hectic clamorings and chaos in which coats and collars are torn asunder that it is sort of like stepping into the hush of a library to go into the exchange these days. The brokers have taken to checkers to keep awake, some of them, while others spend the time comparing golf records. Some jiveller souls discovered that dice are helpful in whiling away the silent hours, but the governors reminded them that gambling is prohibited — of course — within the precincts of the stock exchange. There's nothing else to do. The frenzied public refused to become frenzied right now about stocks. So do the brokers. The only excitement the floor has seen in several days — or pretty nearly weeks — took place the other morning when one of the youthful members conceived a happy thought of living up a new ticker arrangement. It is a transparent globe of water, with the ticker running back of it, the numerals being so magnified by the water that they can be read twenty feet away. It looked so much like a goldfish bowl that the lightsome one dropped some pretty little fishes in it and almost upset business. But most of the time, now, the 'change is just about like the U. S. Senate during a nice, long speech.

In "Dream Street," David Warrick Griffith has achieved what a lot of New York critics have been assuming this season to be well-nigh impossible. He has dramatised a story of goodness and light — and happiness — in conflict with wickedness and darkness.

ness and despair, against a background in which the forces of darkness had all the best of it, and he has made goodness and happiness the victor and has given, at the same time, a tremendously artistic production. It is a sweeping answer to the people who have argued that in a story in which it LOOKED as though happiness was doomed, it must BE doomed, or else the drama misses the fire of realism and art. "Dream Street" in its bigness and its power is another "Broken Blossoms," but I'll admit that I was glad it lacked the final tragedy.

The controversy which has raged in art and court circles these past months between the claims of blondes vs. those of brunettes seems to have met with a fairly practical decision in the quotation from a prominent hairdresser. "Which is the most artistic?" he echoed. "Which is the more loyal?" And he shrugged his shoulders. "I don't know, I'm sure. All I know is that I get 40 cents an ounce more for blonde hair than for dark. That shows which most people want to be."

A suit of clothes looked better to Thomas Shannon, panhandler, than freedom. He was on the point of being released from the Toms, when he decided to swap clothes with Fred Stern, waiting girl for pocketpicking, and take Stern's chances of drawing a sentence. When Shannon's name was called for release, Stern, in the panhandler's shabby clothes walked out. But there isn't much freedom of choice left in life these days, and anybody interfered with the mutually agreeable arrangement.

Anna Sabata, who decided that she would become a movie star rather than a waitress, got back her $40 paid for the lessons which were to be the open sesame to film fame. Miss Sabata appeared in court as complainant against George R. Cole, who had inserted the ad which lured the $40 from her savings bank. She had been promised, Miss Sabata declared, a position which would enable her to ride in a limousine. Instead, she had only been taught to recite "On Our Wedding Day," and she was still a waitress. She offered to recite it for the court, but before she got through, it was decided that the evidence was sufficient to get her $40 back.

It did seem a trifle like rubbing it in, to some of New York City's state income tax payers this year. Not only did it have to be paid — and minus some of the federal exemption — BUT they had to walk into the room which used to be the Cafe Savarin bar, to pay it. "I mailed mine," one heavy tax-payer was explaining on the bus. "Just because I could not bear to walk into that room and see it all filled up with desks and clerks and people taking money — and not passing out what I used to get there in return for it."

PROPER CARE IS NECESSARY TO PROFIT
IN STOCK BREEDING
State Experiment Expert Addresses
Cattle Men On Proper Care
And Feeding of Live Stock.

How farmers of the state may save from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 annually through the proper care of stock and feeding livestock was discussed by Professor E. S. Good, assistant director of the State Experiment Station, Kentucky University College of Agriculture in an address to farmers and breeders at the Bourbon Stock Yards. Prof. Good's talk was given in connection with the Farmer's Better Sire Sale, June 2nd, to be conducted by The Kentucky Pure Breed Livestock Association and the Louisville Livestock Exchange, at which 200 pure bred registered bulls will be sold at auction.

The address of Prof. Good follows: "I am one of those who believe Kentucky should have more cattle, a larger number of head of livestock. I have been in this game quite a number of years and I can remember the time when the bullock went to the market weighing 1800 pounds, then after a few years, came down to 1100 pounds. No one thought of putting a steer on the market weighing less than 1400 pounds, so we are getting them to a much smaller weight, developing quality and in order to do it, must have better sires. In olden times in Illinois, we always fattened cattle with sixty bushels of corn and a ton of clover hay, but a man feeding that way today would go broke. If we are going to be successful in feeding steers, we must learn how to cut the cost. A man who feeds an unlimited amount of corn is going to come out of the little end of the horn. I want to say to you that Kentucky loses annually a great deal in livestock by not conserving the roughs. The losses by not taking proper care of stock is estimated anywhere from five million to ten millions or in other words, one fourth of the stock in Kentucky is lost. If you leave it out on the fields, the rain causes a loss, and if you wait until spring to feed it you get very little out of it. If it is cut with the corn and put into the silo, the steer eats all of it and thus it is conserved. If we are going to feed, we must have ration. The old method of feeding cattle was a full feeding of silage, full feeding of corn, of cotton seed meal, and etc. The next thing was that clover hay was not necessary when feeding nitrogenous feeds as cottonseed meal, and with this, it can be eliminated. If you have a second growth, it is all right to include this, but it is not necessary to give clover hay to the steer if you are feeding cottonseed meal, save the clover for the young. Next thing in feeding since is to determine whether or not it is profitable. Whether to begin with corn at the beginning or to eliminate corn from the first feeding period. It is more profitable to eliminate corn entirely, especially if corn is high and there are a number of steers on the market. The man this year who has fed his steers corn silage, cottonseed meal and straw has made money or at least has lost the least.

A long time ago the Blue Grass region thought that if you fed cattle on silage during the winter it would not graze good during the summer. Where you feed cottonseed meal in the winter, it takes a little while longer to get the steer to gain on grass. A test was made with one bunch feeding with silage, corn, straw and cottonseed meal which gained as much as those fed with silage and the cattle went on grass weighing about the same. The silage fed steer put on gain six or seven times cheaper than those that did not get it. Two out of three years the steer that did not get silage gained better on grass than those that did. In one year those that got silage made a better profit than the others. We tried feeding one bunch on cottonseed meal and silage and turned another bunch on grass then brought them back and finished with the previous ration. The little fellows that were well bred were ready for the second fall market and those that were not had to be taken back and fed another five months to be ready. If a man has a well bred calf he ought to get market in eighteen to twenty-four months. It nowhere pays to breed anything that is not good. This state needs to feed cattle. Western Kentucky needs to feed cattle. Western Kentucky has whittled its soil to meet expenses. The western cattle are all straight and pure bred sires are the cause of this. It is not the big raw bone steer that counts, it is the low down, deep compact steer and the kind we can get for a very little money. The pure bred will increase two grades over the scrub on each grade is worth 30 cents per hundredweight or 60 cents on the two grades. The average bull will get forty calves per year which would pay for itself the first year. I think this movement the best ever started in Kentucky and believe we are going to follow it up and get rid of the scrub altogether. We want to feed to a profit and with pure bred stock. Kentucky will again hold her own with any state.

ROAD ENGINEERS
PLANNING BIG GOOD ROADS MEETING.
Kentucky Road Engineers Will Hold
Annual Convention in Louisville
June 7-10 Inclusive.

Louisville, Ky. — Planning to make its annual convention this season the largest and most effective good roads meeting ever held in the state, the executive committee of Kentucky Road Engineers' Association has extended invitations to all County Engineers, County Judges, Fiscal Courts and good road interests to participate in the sessions.

The convention, which will take the form of a good road Congress, will be held in the Jefferson county armory, Louisville, June 7-10 inclusive.

No county can afford to fail in sending delegates to attend this important meeting if it is to be progressive. Nothing is of greater importance in the development of a county than good roads. Advocates of the cause are urged to see that their county is well represented.

The status of the highway system, Federal and state aid, will be intelligently discussed and explained by State Highway Commissioners. Road experts will tell of the different methods of road building and maintenance. Every phase of the question as it exists in each section will be considered.

In connection with the convention there will be a big exhibit of modern road equipment. Material men and manufacturers and dealers will be on hand to demonstrate their products. Delegates will be taken on automobile tours of inspection. Close examination will be made of various types and their durability.

Arrangements are well under way to provide royal entertainment for visitors during their stay in this city.

It is a remarkable fact that the deepest parts of the sea are in all cases very near land.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

APRIL 25, 1921.

Topic: Problems of Poverty and Wealth. Isa. 58:10; Amos 8:4-7; 1 Tim. 6:16-9; Deuteronomy 24:10-13.

REV. J. J. DICKEY.

In all ages of the world, among civilized peoples, poverty and wealth have existed side by side. At first glance it would appear that where wealth is greatest, poverty would be least, but such is not the case. In all ages there have been who men who have sought for methods of equalizing the condition of society, that is to bring about a more equal distribution of wealth. But so far all methods have failed, in any general way. Communism has been a favorite plan, but it soon fails. The Bolshevik movement in Russia is an attempt to solve the problem. There are millions of men today that believe that socialism is the solution. There are two causes for poverty—economic injustice and individual thriftlessness. It is possible for capital to grind labor into poverty; again idleness and improvidence produce the same result. The liberality of capital may all be squandered by extravagance and the beneficiary be left in no better condition, financially. Never before, in the history of civilization has such heroic efforts been made in solve the problem of wealth and poverty as today. All civilized governments are legislating on the subject of economic justice or injustice. Labor just now is taking the lead. But little is doing to correct the other evil — thriftlessness or improvidence. Indeed the high prices of labor during the war has tended to make the people more extravagant and wasteful.

Legislation can never help the poor to substantial comfort and independence until they learn to save their earnings and provide for a rainy day and old age. During the building of the dam near here wages were enormously high. A few men, took advantage of this, saved their money and bought a home; but the greater number spent all their wages and are as poor today as they were six years ago. Co-operation is one method of reducing poverty and distributing wealth. Many successful experiments are being made on this plan. It has become fashionable or customary for millionaires to distribute their fortunes by establishing foundations for research, for sanitation, for colleges, hospitals, orphanages, homes for the aged, the delinquents, the maimed and blind and deaf and dumb, and many other phases of benevolence. It seems hardly the thing to accumulate a fortune by oppression and restore it by benevolence.

In our lesson today, a woe is pronounced against them "who join house to house." The accumulation of large holdings of real estate, militates against the interests of society and should be prohibited by law. Large estates and absentee landlordism has led to bloody revolutions. The trend, today, is against these vast estates. The land is the Lords. He has never deeded a foot of it to men. It is for man's benefit. These accumulations tend to the poverty of the masses. The best state of society exists where men own their homes and cultivate the soil with their own hands.

The prophet Agar spoke wisely when he said, "Give me neither poverty nor riches." Proverbs 30:8.

PRESIDENT ENDORSES KENTUCKY HOME PLAN

President Harding Places His Endorsement on the Movement for Kentucky State Shrine.

Louisville, April 23. — Indorsement by President Harding of the spirit and purposes of the campaign to raise $100,000 for the purchase and preservation of "Federal Hill" is contained in a letter received from him by Marvin H. Lewis, chairman of the executive committee of the campaign.

"The movement in which so many leading citizens have joined for the purchase of the old home where Stephen Collins Foster wrote 'My Old Kentucky Home' has interested me because I feel that it represents a type of civic activity that might well be encouraged in this country. The effort to preserve such shrines as Federal Hill, which are associated with the lives and activities of those who have usefully served their country, is one that can not but have the most beneficial results. We Americans, having a new country, perhaps have not appreciated the full value of these landmarks of accliment, and therefore it is a pleasure to give approval to such an effort as you Kentucky people are making."

Campaign committees have been formed in forty-six cities and towns of the state and forces are being organized for "Old Kentucky Home Week," which is to begin on Mother's day, Sunday, May 8.
